

Benefiting from the Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act

The spending is being used toward repairing roads and bridges; upgrading, maintaining and/or expanding rail systems, public transit and airports; updating power lines and providing clean energy; and more.

Learn more about the legislation here

The Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act, also known as the bipartisan infrastructure bill, was passed by Congress in November 2021 to authorize $1.2 trillion in total spending, including $550 billion in new funds, toward a wide range of infrastructure and environmental initiatives.

How does this impact your construction business?

For the construction industry, this means an influx in spending on public construction projects over the next several years — which can create a lot of opportunities to grow your business.

How to prepare for a high volume of projects

The increased spending means bidding for contracts, along with oversight and compliance. With the right tools in place, it can be easy for you to take on these jobs and manage them from start to finish.

To set yourself up for success, you'll need processes in place to:

Manage certified payroll/prevaling wages

Track workers' time and comply with local labor laws

Train employees on the latest compliance regulations and get new hires up to speed

Find new hires to join your team as your projects increase

Looking to increase your public works projects? ADP® can help

Build a strong pipeline of new public construction projects — without stressing about the requirements involved. ADP and our ADP Marketplace partners can help you simplify your processes with solutions specialized for the construction industry.

ADP Workforce Now® for Construction

Calculate accurate job costing for labor, manage government contracts and union requirements, and attract, manage and retain talent with ADP's all-in-one payroll and HR software built for construction.

ClockShark

Easily track mobile employee time, quickly run payroll and understand your job costs.

Points North Certified Payroll Reporting

Automate your certified payroll reports and facilitate compliance with the Davis-Bacon law.

Ving!

Create, manage and share critical on-the-job information and training to help keep your employees safe and stay compliant.

JazzHR

Quickly source, screen and hire the right talent as you grow your team to take on new business.

Visit apps.adp.com to learn about solutions to help you better run your construction business.

